

Damages!

Sometimes in life it does you good to get straight to the point; so here goes.

Work related injuries

Why should an employer hurt you at work and get away with it? If you've been injured or made unwell at your job through no fault of your own then you'll know just how bad it is dealing with the health consequences alone. What you don't want are further insults to your injury caused by your employer not accepting liability for it. Fighting this might seem like too high a mountain to climb whilst you're suffering, and yet it needn't be. All you have to do is to make one phone call to us at JMP and explain in a straightforward way what's happened. From then on you're in really good hands. Forget the idea that it will cost you a lot of money because it won't, not a penny piece in fact; 'No-Win, No-Fee' means just that. The client is always absolved from the need to pay disbursements and any indemnity insurance is paid for on the client's behalf. The client genuinely has nothing to pay. The most arduous task that you have to do is have an easy conversation with Neil, Ray or Nikkita at JMP; friendly, down-to-earth people who'll immediately be on your side. The fact that Neil and Ray have decades of professional expertise and legal experience up their sleeves mean that once they take you on, they'll know just how to sink their teeth into your case, and they won't let go until they've won it for you; legally and financially. Asbestos in Lincolnshire schools

The story of asbestosis is perhaps a good example to start with. Now we all know when asbestos is removed or chopped into it can be bad for your health. Thirty or forty years ago it was not widely known by the general public. We now know that just one embedded fibre of asbestos in your lung can cause mesothelioma, a cancer of the pleura; the inner lining of the lung. It does this incredibly slowly; forty odd years in many cases will pass before you even know you've got it. And it's not just factories and offices that are fitted with asbestos; over 300 hundred Lincolnshire schools have it built into their fabric; 22 of them in Grantham alone with only 13 of them having been subjected to a Site Management Audit. Imagine the legacy left to today's children some forty years from now if its removal was attempted during term time. No wonder we're terrified of the stuff.

Tenacious litigators getting compensation you deserve.

The Industrial Diseases team at JMP is tenacious in getting sufferers their due compensation and access to justice whatever the cause of their injury. You might not know exactly which employer was responsible for the root cause of your condition. High Court rulings made it law that all of the companies which had the offending material in their buildings share the blame. That's why the ID team strikes at all those firms you worked for. If for some reason they can't fight them, they'll fight their respective insurance companies. If the company's gone bust then once more it's their one-time insurer they'll tackle. If this insurer doesn't exist anymore they'll go for the insurance company which took them over. Often these companies will have a bank of legal experts ranged against Neil and Ray. Again and again they'll drive home your case like a latter day David & Goliath; and we all know how that story turned out. Having this amount of persistent power on your side is a real help in settling your troubled mind during the process. The triumph when it comes sadly won't change your medical prognosis, but it will give some relief to the worries about the future of the family you love and care for.

Deafness compensation

The same goes for 'Noise Related Hearing Loss', even if you began suffering in the days this long before our modern Health & Safety regulations came in. Asthma is another condition they champion, when it's been caused by inhaling small particulates at work. 'Vibration White Finger' is another, even mental and emotional stress. And this is before we've even touched on the incredible work the team does to get their clients justice and compensation for work-related accidents.

Contact

So, let's keep it simple. If you get hurt at work through no fault of your own, you're not alone. JMP's friendly, 'No-Win, No-Fee' legal team are constantly standing by to fight on your behalf. At the end of the day, having a chat with them is far better than suffering all alone in silence.
